This book contains information upon some of the descendants of John Ryle of Anson County, North Carolina who died some time between January 8, 1777 and January 1, 1791. A copy of his will may be found in the records of North Carolina. Not too much is known of this John Ryle. He was a Regulator, one of that group of inhabitants of western North Carolina who banded together to protest against the policies of the royal Governor, William Tryon. On October 9, 1769 these men presented a petition to the governor asking that their position be explained to the King. John Ryle's name is the eighth one on this list of signers. This petition was ignored and in the short period of unrest that followed, the Regulators were defeated and were required to swear an oath of allegiance to the King.

This John Ryle who lived in North Carolina in 1769, had his place of birth and the names of his parents are as yet unknown. The deed books of Anson County show that on July 10, 1764 John Ryle bought 200 acres of land from Benjamin Moorman. On April 24, 1765 he bought 140 acres from John Wilson. On October 25, 1766 he bought 140 acres more from John Wilson. In 1784 the estate of the late John Ryle was sold at public auction. James Ryle and his mother Elizabeth bought most of the estate. We do not know for sure who this Elizabeth was, but there is good reason to believe that she was the daughter of John R. Ryle. The names Whitnell and Harrington appear over and over among the descendants.

In the early 1790's the sons of John Ryle joined in the general movement to the newer lands in the new state of Kentucky. John Ryle, Jr. was the first to sell his North Carolina lands on September 14, 1793. Larkin and John Ryle sold their lands to Samuel Carter on December 10, 1793. On April 24, 1794, James Ryle sold the remaining lands which his father had left.

At least James and John, Jr. moved to Boone County, Kentucky about 1796. They had married sisters in North Carolina and each had several young children. These women were Elizabeth and Sarah Hogan, daughters of James and Silence (or Silience) Hogan. His will is in the records of Anson County. It is possible that Larkin Ryle came with his brother. Larkin Ryle is recorded in Boone County a notice of his marriage to Mary Elmore. He later sold Boone County land to his brother, James. It is quite likely that a sister, Mary Polly Ryle, came as well. All evidence indicates that she married Moses Scott, a physician, and that their children married children of James Ryle.

This book contains names of many of the descendants of James and John Ryle, Jr. They lived, for the most part, in Boone County, Kentucky, in the region called the East Bend. There they married into the Stephens, Rice, Scott, Wingate, Craig, Marshall, Kendall, and Sanford families among others. The grandchildren and later generations moved into Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, and Texas. Today these known descendants live in more than thirty of the fifty states.

This book is the culmination of more than fifty years of work by Elbert Stephens Ryle of Freeson, Maryland. Many people have contributed to its completion. Although it would be impossible to name all of them, special mention should be given to the late Mrs. Mamie Williamson of Grant, Kentucky, and Mary Reed Ryle of Cincinnati, Ohio. All who have furnished information have the warmest thanks of the authors.

In his will dated January 8, 1777 he names the following children:

Elizabeth Ryle

James Ryle 7/18/1763 9/7/1838

Larkin Ryle, son of John Ryle and Elizabeth Harrington (?) was born in North Carolina in 1772. His marriage to Polly Gilmore on 9/25/1805 is recorded in the marriage book of Boone County, Kentucky. Larkin sold his North Carolina lands on December 10, 1793. In 1806 he deeded his Boone County land to James Ryle. There is no further record of him. He may have gone back to North Carolina or may have crossed over the river into Indiana or Illinois. He may have had at least two children; maybe by a previous marriage. The names Larkin, Jr. and Elizabeth appear in the Boone County marriage book. These two cannot be identified as children of either James Ryle or John Ryle II.

Received too late to classify in proper order. See pages 4 and 5.
